ITALY IN A HURRY.

She Wants the New Orleans Affair Settled at Once

AND RECALLS HER MINISTER.

Baron Fava Will Go Back to Rome Hul the Officials at Washington Are Nat Worrying Themselves About It-There Will Be No War Between Haly and the all United States.

WASHINGTON, April 1.-Baron Fava, the Italian minister, has been re ering his connection with the united called from the United State: by his government ou account of dissatisfaction in connection with the New Orloans affair. Baron Fava called at the state d partment Tuesday and with-The alairs of the Italian legation are the legation, who has authority to transact current business only.

The reason given was that the "King of Italy was dissatisfied with the progress of adjustments between the two countries touching the New Cr-leans massacre." In his note to Secretary Blaine, Baron Fava informs the secretary that as the United States government has not given assurance; that the murderers of the ita ian subjects acquitted by American manistrates and niurdered in prison while under the protection of the authorities of New Orleans, would be brought to justice, the Italian government has found itself under the very painful neces ity of showing openly its dissatisfaction by recalling the minister of his majesty, King Humbert, from a country where the Italian representative is unable to obtain justice.

The baron's passport, of course, will be given to him at once. Baron Fava will leave for Italy in a short t me.

The recall of Baron Fava puts an end to any further direct communication between the representative of ita y in this country and Secretary Blaine. Hereafter the state department will be obliged to communicate directly with the Italian government at Rome.

Little is talked about in Washington except the recall of Baron Fava by the Italian government. In the hotels, on the streets and in public clubs the matter is a subject of intense interest Strange to say, in dipiomatic and official circles, the same importance is not attached to Baron Fava's recall as in the public resorts. The fact that the Italian legation is to remain here and conduct the rontine business that usually passes between governments, shows that diplomatic relations between the United States and Italy are not yet severed. The ministers of foreign governments, it is asserted in diplomatic circles, are frequently away for long periods and frequently away for long periods and the routine business between govern-ments is conducted by the attaches of legations, while important matters are directly handled by the secretary of state or the home governments, without the intervention of the legation. This is what, it is asserted, will now be done, while italy remains unepresented at Washington. The matter of Earon Fava's recall is not regarded here generally as a serious question or one likely to provoke hostilities, or even to lead to complications that will not be unravel.et by the deft hand of diplomacy. In fact there is a political significance attached to it that would suggest that the Italian politicians ha e not viewed American rolitics in vain. 'The ministe ial crisis in Italy event, which it is pointed ont, throws some light on Baron Fuva's recall. The present italian ministry, ever since its assumption of the reins of govern-ment, have been opposed by the powerful minority party with Signor Crispi at its head. The killing of the Italians in New Orleans gave it, in the excited state of public feeling, a clnb with which to belabor the ministry. The tedious channels of diplomacy were too slow to satisfy the Italian people that justice would be done to their country-inen in the United States, and the government, to appease the populace and at the same time to show in a certain sense its disapproval of what it considered the lack of heart shown by the United States government in bringing the murderers of the Italians to justice, recalled paron Fava.

Secretary Blaine and the state departmaking public any official statement concorning the withdrawal of Baron Fava. Secretary Blaine said last night that it would be manifestly improper for him, at this time, to express my opinion in the matter. It is believed, however, that the secretary is not and that he is confident that the difficulty is temporary and can be settled through the usual diplomatic channels.

A very high official, whose knowledge of diplomatic transactons under the present administration is the best and whose responsibility cannot be questioned, gave to the press last night the following statement which may be taken as representing the feelings of the administration concerning the withdrawal.

"Baron Fava, the Italian minister, notified the state department that under orders from Rome he was compelted to withdraw from his mission near this government. He does not, however, close the Italian legation, leaving Marquis Imperiuli, the present secretary, to act as charge d' affaires. This action on the lart of the Italian minister is in no sense one of hostility to this government, but merely indi ates a certain degree of discontent on the part of the Italian ministry representing the New Orleans parish prison affair. Baron Fava has been on diplomatic duty in Washington for the past ten years, and his retirement will be much regrotted, officially and socially. The highly sensational rumors pointing to a severance of diplomatic relations and possible war between the two countries as a result of Baron Fava's reticement are not be-lieved to have any foundation in fact." "It was," said a prominent official, "a move for home consumption.' view is the prevalent one in official circles. No excitement is observeable among officials.

The subject of Baron Fava's recall was mentioned in the cabinet meeting, but it was not considered of sufficient importance to be dismised and "if it had not followed on the linels of the Mafia troubles in New Crleans, said the same high official quoted above. 'would not have occasioned any stir at

Baron Fava must, according to diplomatic etiquette, present his letter of re all to President Harrison before sev-

States government. It is said by persons well versed in di lomatic matte.s. that a failure to resent this letter would be a direct slight to the government. A state d partment Tuesday and with-drew his passport and other papers. letter of recall, is acc imponied to the executive mansion by the secretary of now temporarily in charge of Marque state, and after the minister has pre-Imperiali de Francavilla, secretary of sentel his lette s and made a few remarks explanatory of them, the president us fully a akes a short com limentary speech, expressing his regret at the p in ster's withdrawal and his hope that plen-ant relations will continue between the two countries. It remains to be seen what will be done in this regard before Baron rava lea. es Washington.

A rumor was put in circulation yes-terday that it had been reported from Rome that eightem Americans have been arrested there and held as hostages. No confirmation of the report can be had at the state department. Assistant Se retary Adee said to a United Press reporter that so far as he was advised ouly two American citivens had been arrested in Italy within the last three months. One of these had been released and the other was arreste some time prior to the New Orleans affair.

John Crowley, of Boston, general secretary of the Clothing Operatives National union, testified that he had been to New York and found that seceral prominent clothing dealers of Boston had their goods manufactured in New York tenement hou es under unwholesome conditions. The rooms were extremely filthy. In one room measuring 12 by 9 feet there were thirty people of both sexes. The air was fonl. Upstairs were a number of children, the eldest 10 years old, entirely nude, playing about the floor. Unwholesome sweating was found in the establishments at Nos. 28 Attorney street, 93 Christie street, 162 Division street and 136

Divi ion street. This was in November Isaac Mullen, state inspector of factories in Massachusetts, had been sent to New York to examine the system. He testified that at 67 Reade street buckets of slops were standing about and the rooms were crowded with people. To a certain extent general advertising creates a want. It announces new things and familiarizes the public with old ones. What is true of these Portsmouth shoe factories is also true of similar enterprises at Washington C. H., O., and Williamsburg, O. One of the leading events of the season in theatrical eircles will be the appearance here next Friday night of the noted tragedienne Madam Janauschek. In response to many requests, she has decided to play "Meg Merrilies," a dramatization of Sir Walter Scott's novel 'Guy Mannering."

"The request for this play here reflects much credit upon Maysville people,' said her representative yesterday. They seldom have calls for "Meg Merrilies" outside of the big cities.

The company began a short engagement at Louisville Monday night, and the Courier-Journal yesterday says: "Janauschek is still the great actress she was years ago. Fifteen Goorkhas who escaped from the massacre have arrived at Kohima. They report that Mr. and Mrs. Grimwood. Golskene and Simpson have escaped into Cachar, where the natives were becoming restl ss.
